Delilah R. Artus is an associate at Donnelly, Conroy & Gelhaar LLP. Her practice focuses on appellate litigation, insurance coverage, intellectual property litigation, and complex civil litigation. Prior to joining the firm, Delilah gained experience handling a variety of complex litigation matters.

Delilah earned her J.D. from Boston University School of Law, where she served as Articles Editor of the International Law Journal, President of the International Law Society, and Vice President of the Intellectual Property Law Society.

During law school, Delilah participated in several moot court competitions, including the Irving R. Kaufman Memorial Securities Law Moot Court Competition, where her team advanced to the quarterfinals and received the Best Petitioner's Brief award. She also competed in the Homer Albers Prize Moot Court Competition and the Stone Moot Court Competition.

Before entering private practice, Delilah interned with the Massachusetts Department of Revenue and served as a judicial extern with the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court.

Delilah graduated magna cum laude from Davidson College with a Bachelor of Arts in English and a minor in Art History.
